

WELL Health-Safety Rating: A Program to Build Trust & Confidence for Healthy Building Re-Entry

What is the WELL Health-Safety Rating?

The International WELL Building Institute, known as IWBI, has launched the WELL Health-Safety Rating, a new evidence-based rating system that provides third-party verification of health and safety features for all new and existing building and facility types.

IWBI is best known for its WELL Building Standard, a rating system designed to enhance health and wellness. The new Health-Safety Rating, whose features are a subset of those under the WELL Building Standard, is designed to help organizations operate, maintain, and design facilities specifically in a post-COVID-19 environment and beyond. Together we can advance the conversation about how to best bring transparency and standardization to how companies disclose their impact on health and well-being, improve accountability, and encourage investments for health.

How to earn the WELL Seal?

Includes Health and Safety categories:

- Cleaning and Sanitization Procedures
- Emergency Preparedness Programs
- Health Service Resources
- Air and Water Quality Management
- Stakeholder Engagement and Communication
- Innovation.

Achieve at least 15 of the 22 strategies to receive the WELL Seal.

“Seeing the seal outside means people can feel safer inside”

~International WELL Building Institute (IWBI)

Why is the WELL Health-Safety Rating important?

WELL is “A visible indication of confidence and trust. The WELL Health-Safety seal communicates to everyone entering a space that evidence-based measures have been adopted and third-party verified.” (<https://www.wellcertified.com/health-safety/>)

Hundreds if not thousands of companies world-wide have gotten WELL verified to show that their buildings are safe to enter.
